International Women's Day is a day of awareness-building and celebration, dedicated to accelerating the progress of women's social, economic, cultural, and political achievements globally. To celebrate in solidarity, join us for a virtual fireside chat with celebrated women in arbitration from around the world. They will share how they have balanced professional and personal lives, including families and cross-cultural challenges, and explore questions such as: As female leaders, what have been the most significant barriers in their careers? And, how can today's young women take the next step into leadership?
